The 2013 Annual Used Book Sale is just around the corner. The sale opens to the public on Sunday, March 10, closes Monday through Wednesday, then reopens Thursday, March 14, through Sunday, March 17. Once again, the sale will be held at the Knoxville Convention and Exposition Center at the Holiday Inn on the World's Fair Park.

"Members Only Day" at the sale is Saturday, March 9.

Most books for adults sell for $2 or less and books for children will be $1 or less. The sale will include a wide selection of affordable movies, magazines and music and a Special Collections area of rare and over-sized books priced between $3 and $20.

Fiction, Non-Fiction, Movies, Magazines, Music, Over-Sized Books and More!

This year, everything is half-price on Thursday and Friday (March 14-15), including books, DVDs and books in Special Collections. Bag Sale Weekend is Saturday and Sunday, March 16-17. A bag of great books is only $5. Box sale prices of $20 to $25 will be offered in Special Collections.

a lunchtime book discussion led by former Knoxville Chief of Police Sterling Owen IV, East TN History Center. This month's selection: The Angels of Our Better Nature: Why Violence Has Declined by Steven Pinker

March & April

On Special: Gardening Friends @ Rothrock Used Book Shop

Curbside Volunteers Needed in March

Friends will once again offer convenient curbside delivery at the 2013 Used Book Sale in March. Helping shoppers load their hefty purchases into their cars is a great way to enhance their shopping experience and get them coming back to the sale year after year.

Do you know a scout troop, a Sunday school class, an athletic team or other group in need of community service hours that might help with the sale's curbside delivery?

If so, contact Jean Idell (865-789-9081, idelj@bellsouth.net).

Other volunteer shifts are also available during the sale. Join *Friends and consider helping out. Call hours, directions or the location of convenient parking, visit www.knoxfriends.org.

During the past 40 years, Friends membership dues and income from used-book sales have provided the Knox County Public Library and its patrons with more than $1 million of financial support for extended child, teen and adult programs, events and materials, and professional development opportunities for staff.

Help us make this year's used book sale a success by reminding all your friends about the sale and by shopping at the event.

Library Legislative Day February 19

With an eye toward promoting legislation that advances public library services across the state, Tennessee Library Legislative Day is scheduled for Tuesday, February 19, in Nashville.

This day-long event is designed to enhance the skills of library advocates in communicating with their legislators. A panel of Friends and trustees will share effective ideas for conveying the benefits of libraries to lawmakers.

Tennessee Library Legislative Day is sponsored by the Tennessee Library Association in cooperation with Friends of Tennessee Libraries and the Tennessee Association of School

Are You an E-Reader Novice?

Is the Nook, Kindle or iPad you received during the holidays still in its wrappings because you don't know how to use it? The Knox County Public Library is ready to come to the rescue!

The library has a growing selection of e-books for children, teens, and adults available to anyone with a Knox County library card. To learn how to access e-books on your device, the library offers free help sessions, including demonstrations on how to install/register required software and how to download an e-book. The next help session will be held at the Bearden Branch Library on February 28 at 6:30 p.m.

For immediate and the Nashville Public Library.
